I can barely contain my excitement as I dive into my review of VIRGIN MARY PISTOL GRIP's (VMPPG) powerful track "Ginger Jesus" from their Secret Codes EP. This rock/alternative & punk masterpiece had flown under my radar for three years, but it's finally on my playlist, and I cannot stop hitting the repeat button!

The lyrics of "Ginger Jesus" are both profound and crystal clear, resonating with anyone who has ever grappled with addiction. The song's storyline is incredibly relatable, capturing the essence of the struggle to overcome a problem larger than oneself and the desperate need for help. It's a powerful reminder that we can't do this alone.

What I absolutely adore about this song is the live instrumentation that breathes life into every single note. The raw energy of the guitars, drums, and vocals meld together seamlessly, leaving me invigorated and eager for more.

However, it's quite astonishing that this song has remained underrated for so long. I find myself wondering about the band's marketing strategies for new releases, because music of this caliber deserves to be heard far and wide. VMPG could greatly benefit from seeking sync placements for "Ginger Jesus" to help it reach a broader audience.

Though I offer this constructive criticism, I wholeheartedly encourage the band to keep producing such inspiring music. "Ginger Jesus" has earned a well-deserved spot on my playlist, and I can confidently say it is more than just spin-worthy.

To anyone who hasn't had the pleasure of listening to VIRGIN MARY PISTOL GRIP's "Ginger Jesus," I implore you to give it a listen. Trust me when I say that once you hit play, you won't be able to stop humming its catchy tune. And to VMPG: keep up the incredible work; we're eagerly awaiting your next release!
